REVISED BASED ON THE FEEDBACK - 1

- Improve the interface of main page and make the theme and fonts more consistent

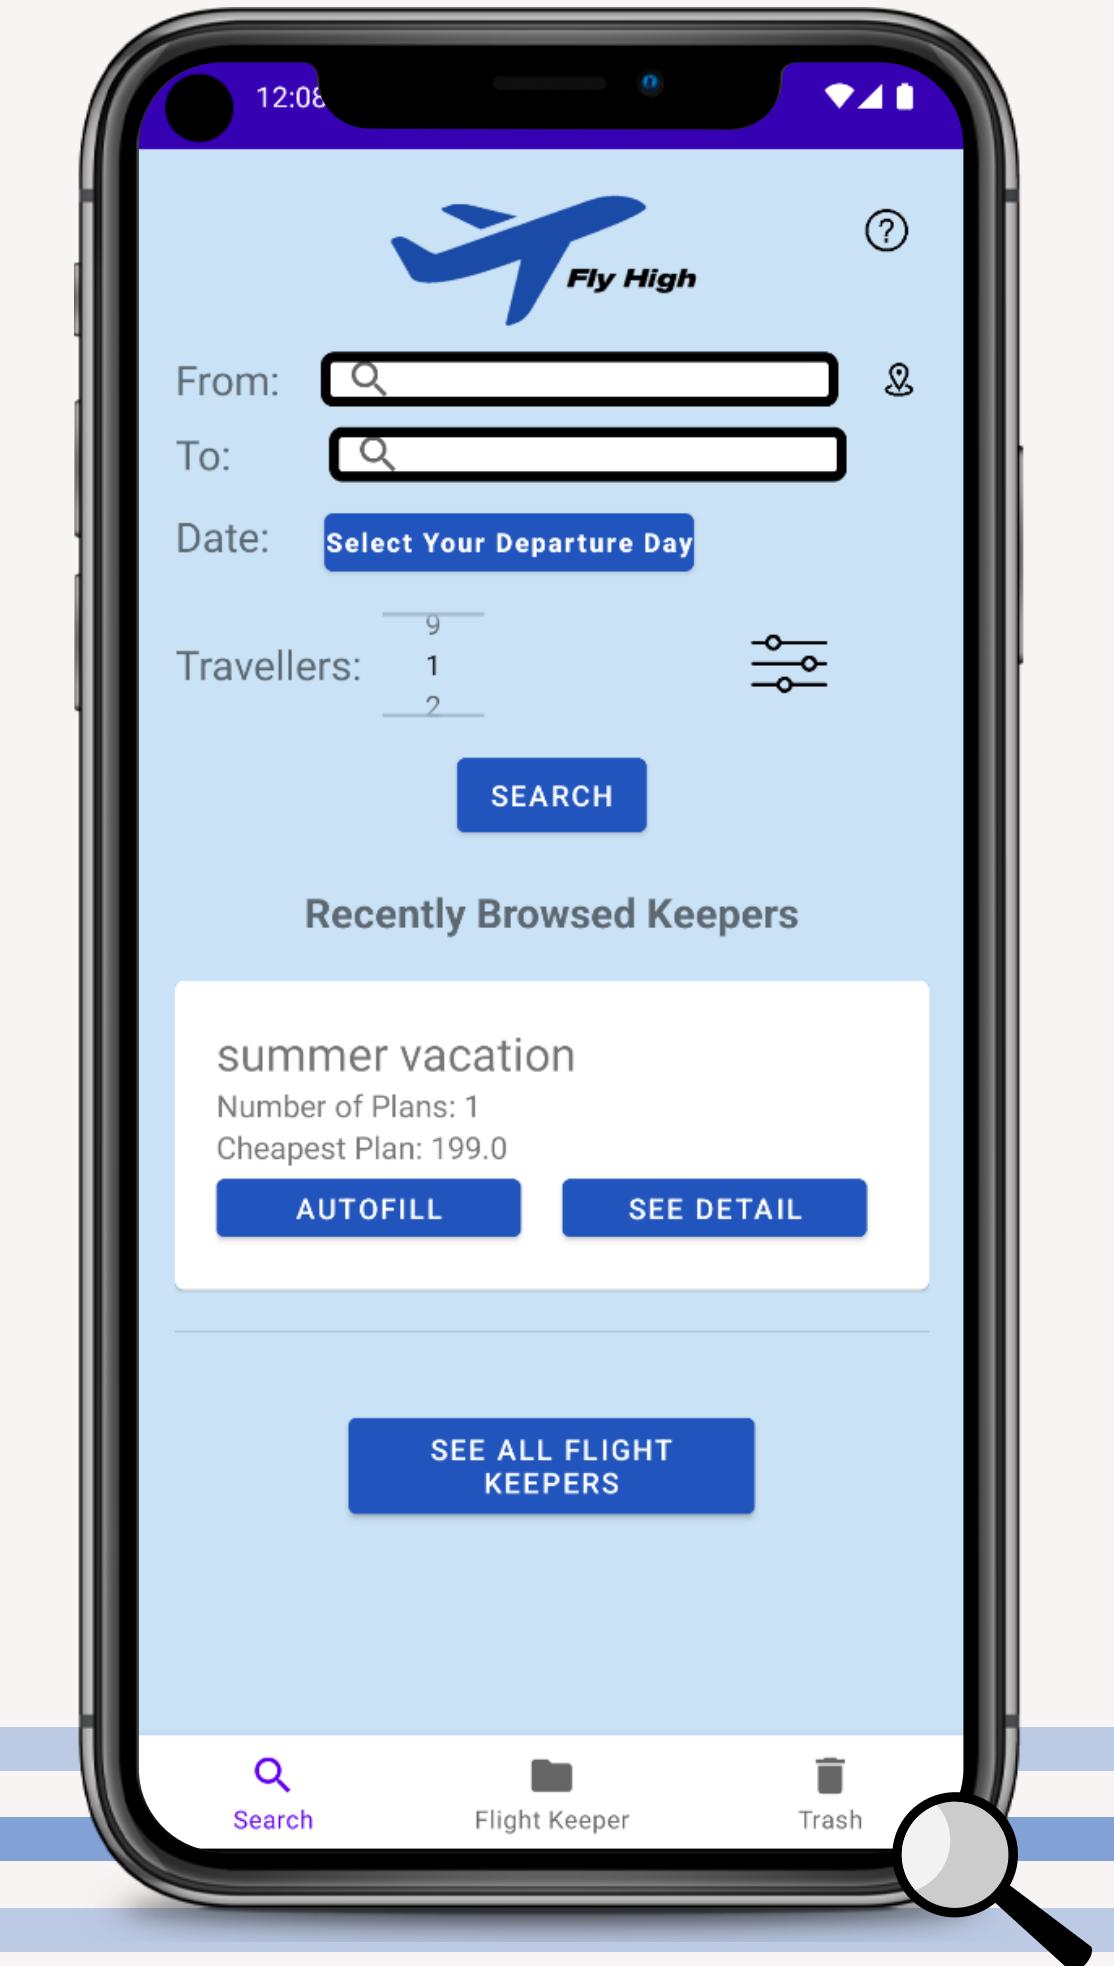

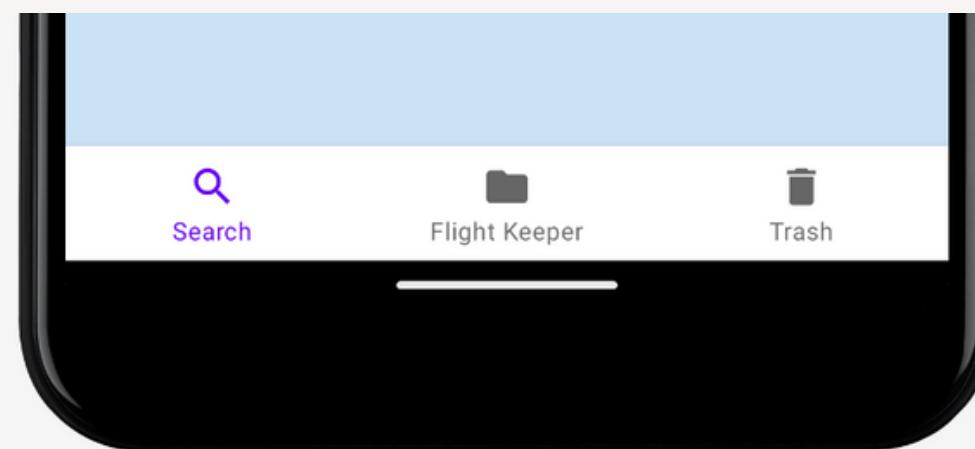

Our biggest problem is the consistency of page colors and fonts. The previously selected background color is too dark, making it difficult for users to quickly read the words. We unify the color and improve readability.

REVISED BASED ON THE FEEDBACK - 2

- Add the navigation bar and instructional buttons

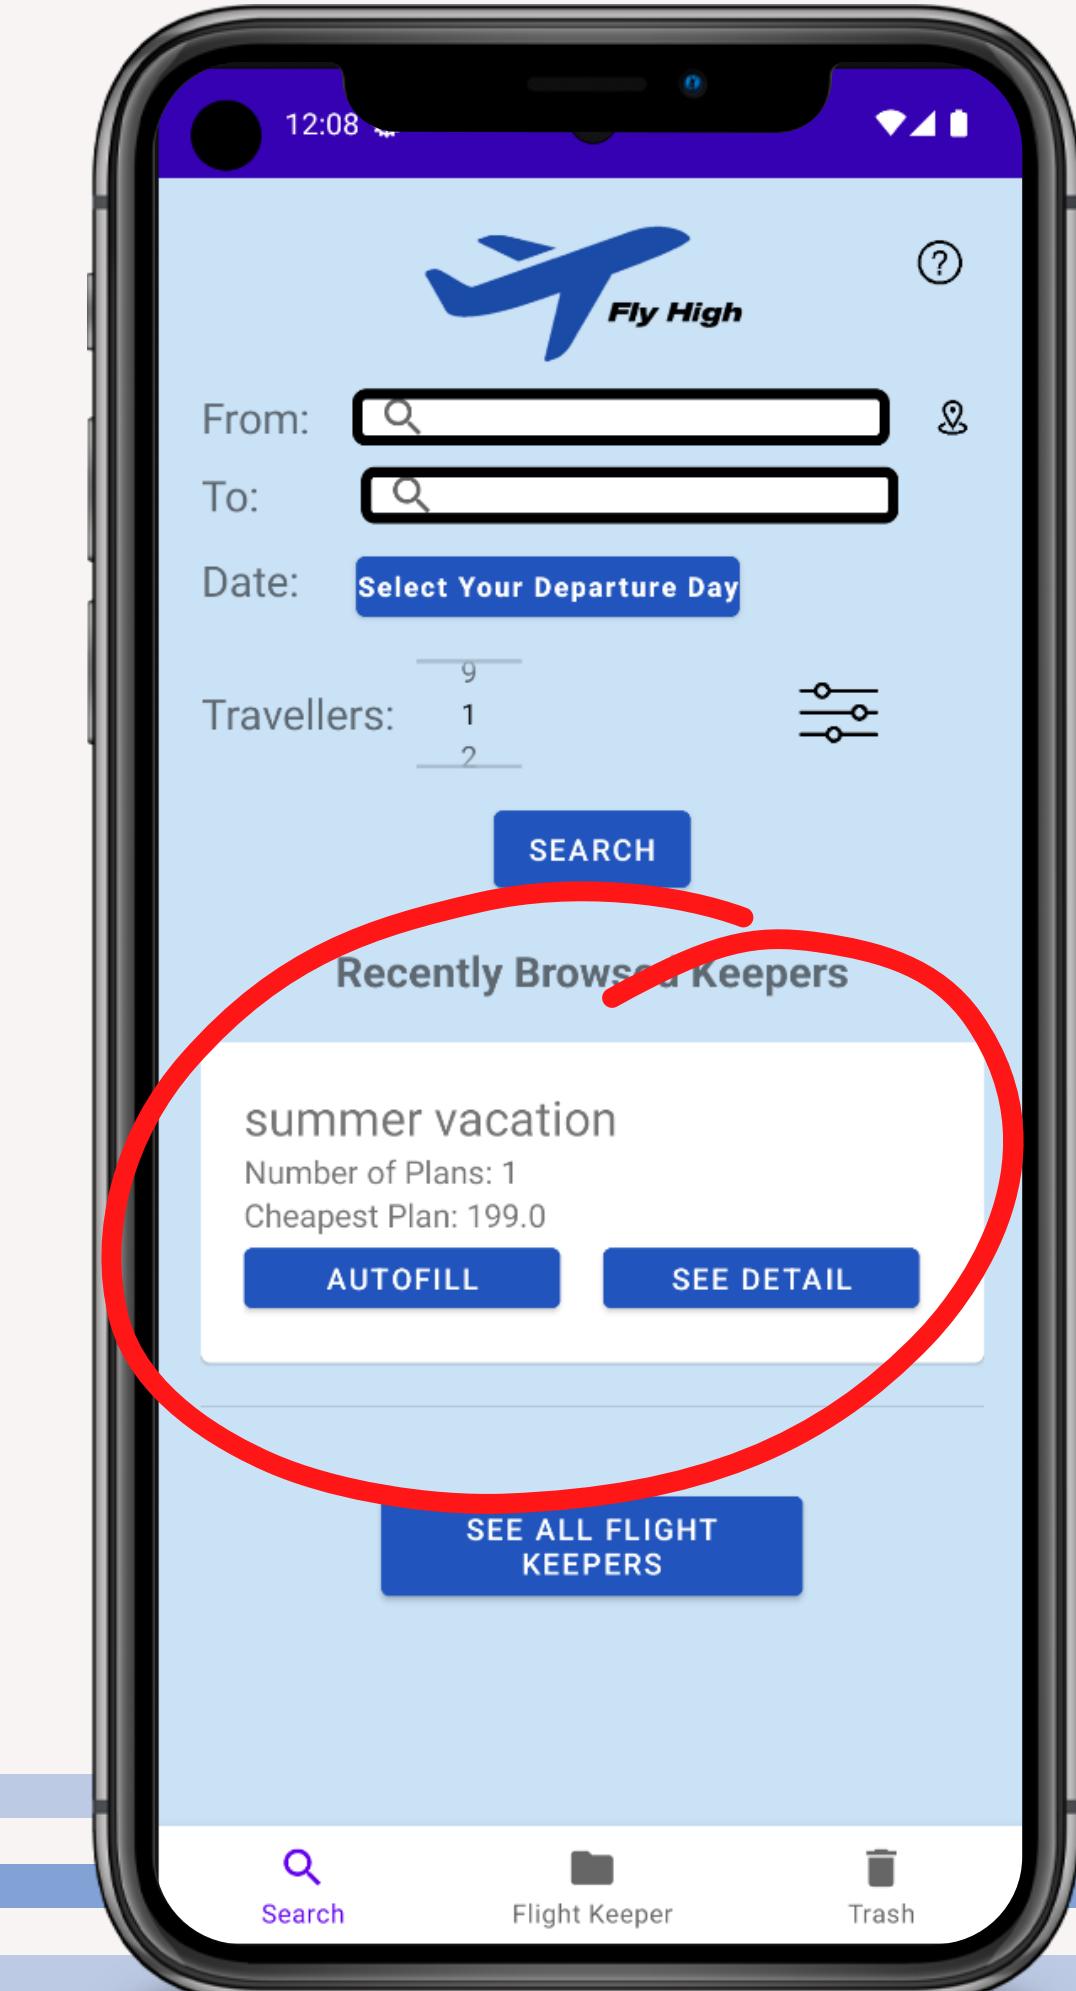

Our app has the issue that many people pointed out in the feedback form, which is that there are too many pages and users will be easily get lost when jumping between different page.

REVISED BASED ON THE FEEDBACK - 3

- Add a Recently Browsed Keepers section for better usability

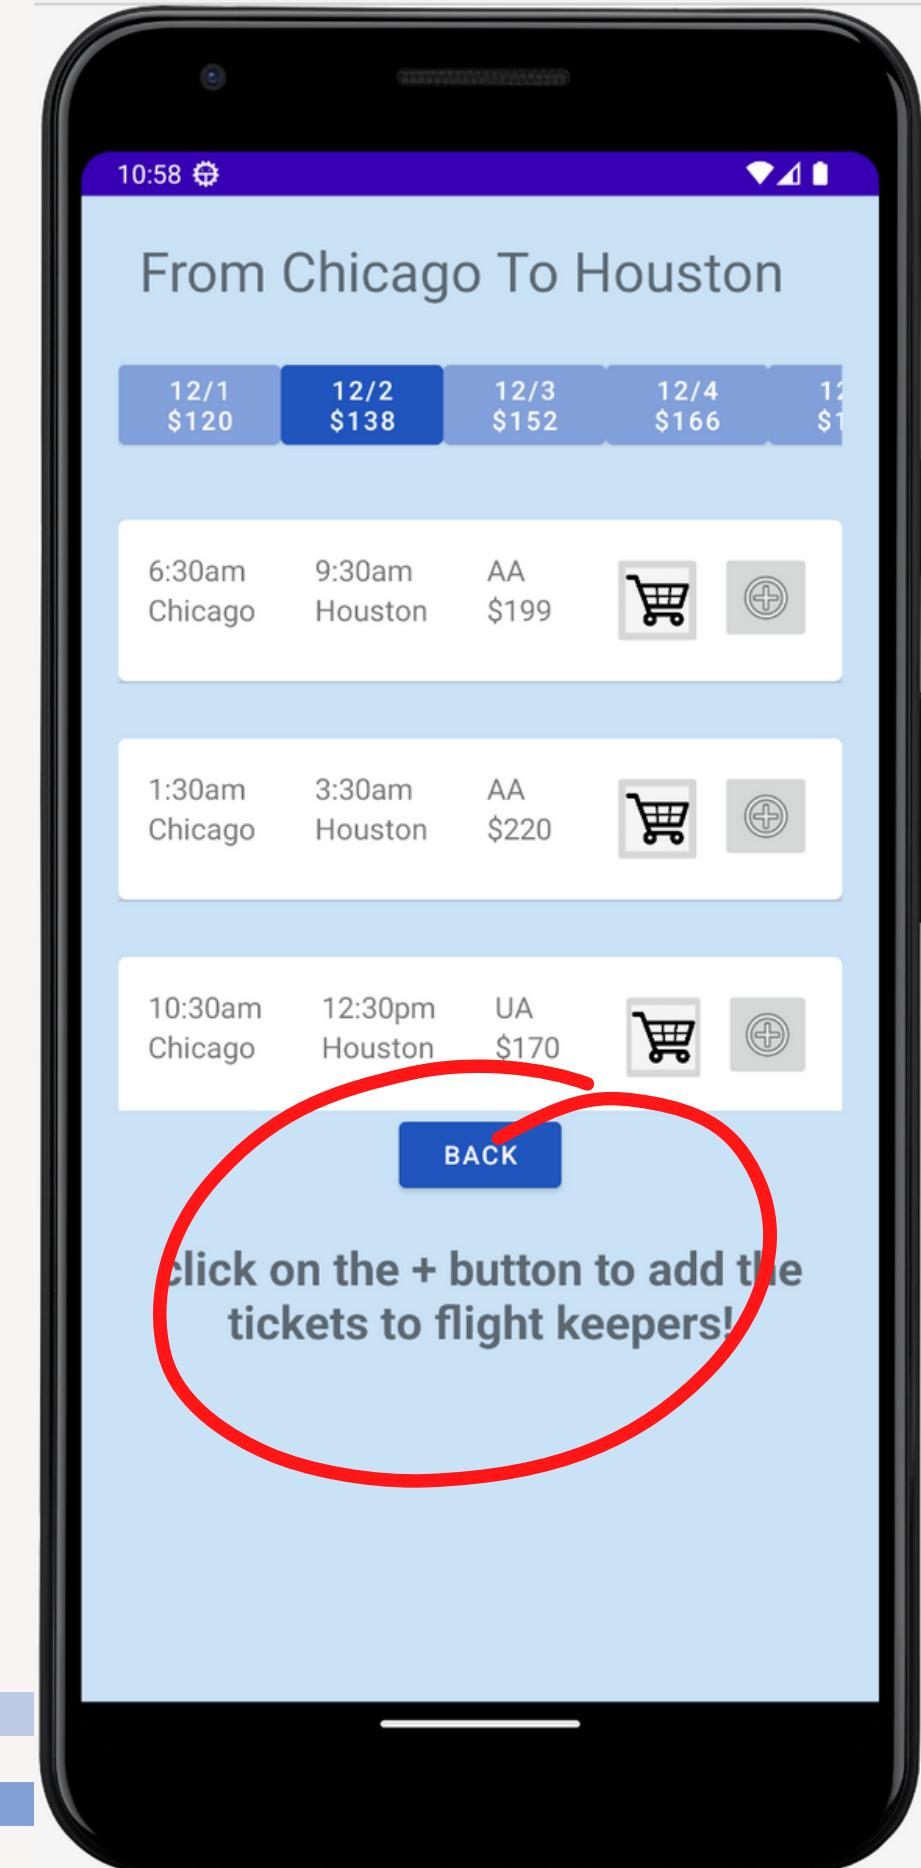

The Recently Browsed Keepers section will display the flight keepers that the user has viewed mostly recently

REVISED BASED ON THE FEEDBACK - 4

- Add the short instruction message when applicable

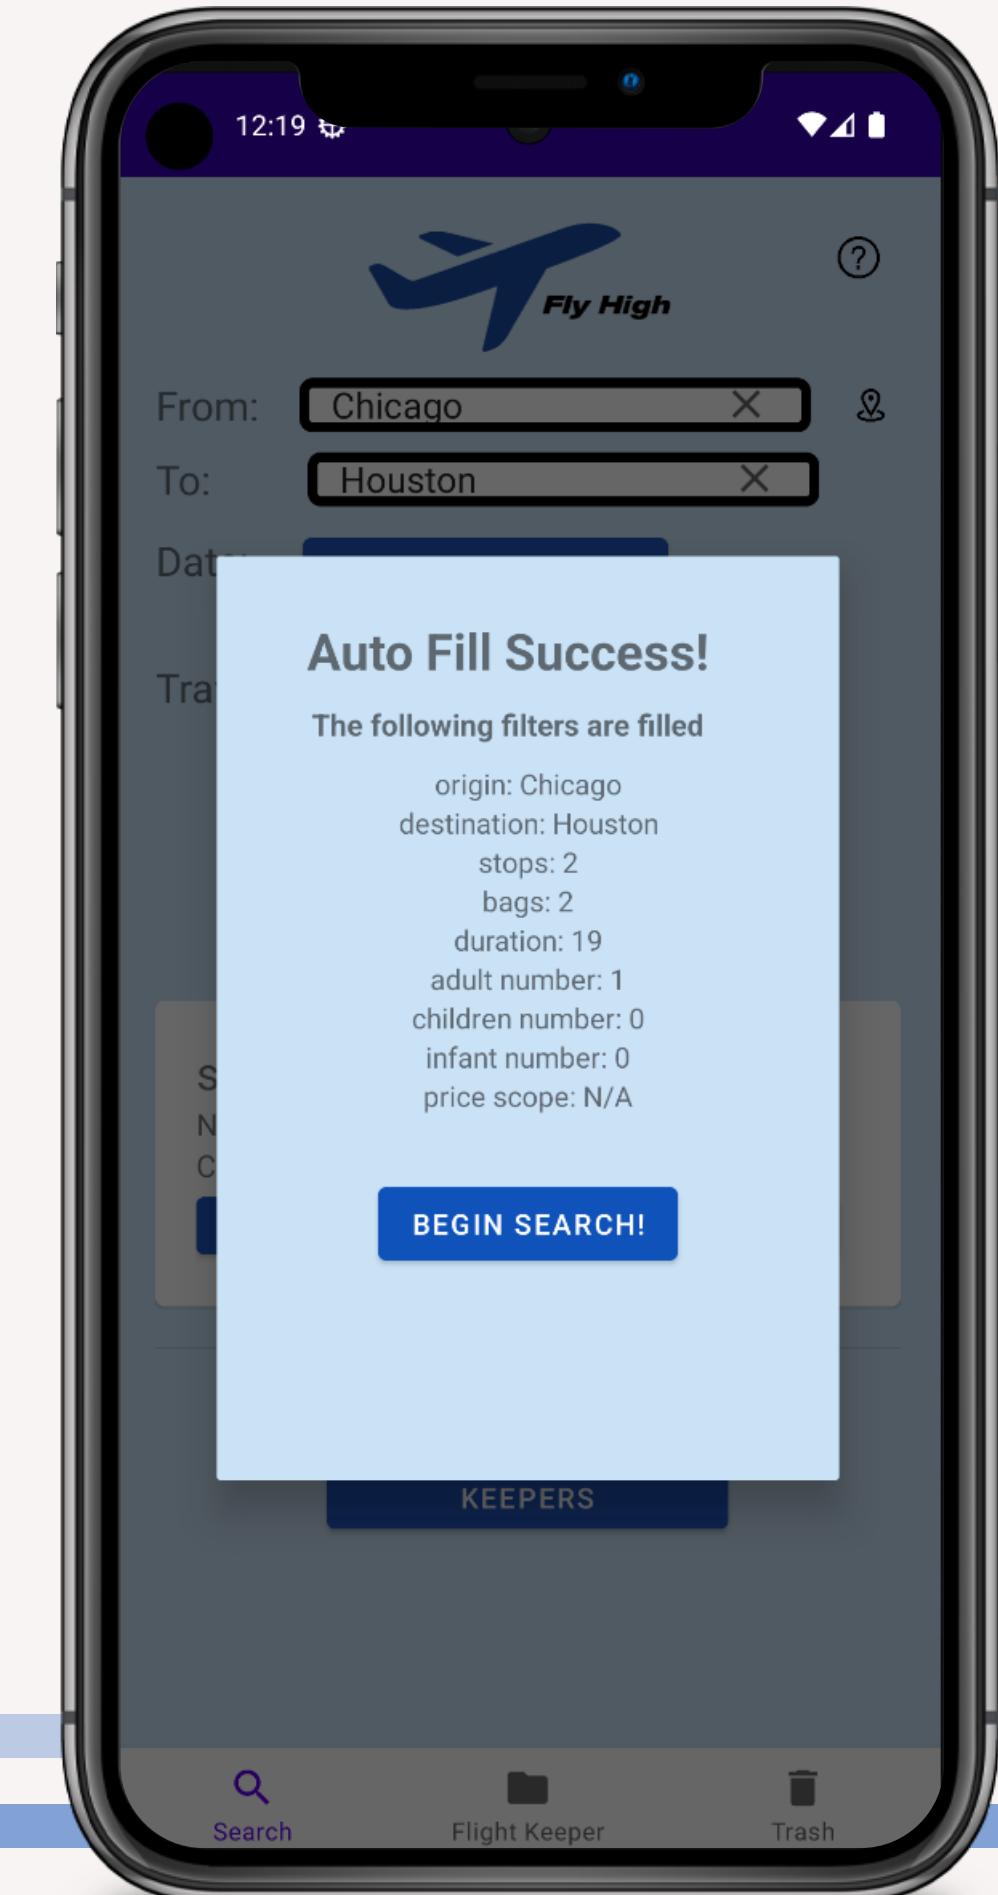

To take care of first-time users of the app, we've added some instructional messages to keep users from feeling overwhelmed due to not knowing what to do next.

REVISED BASED ON THE FEEDBACK - 4

- Add the short responsive message when applicable

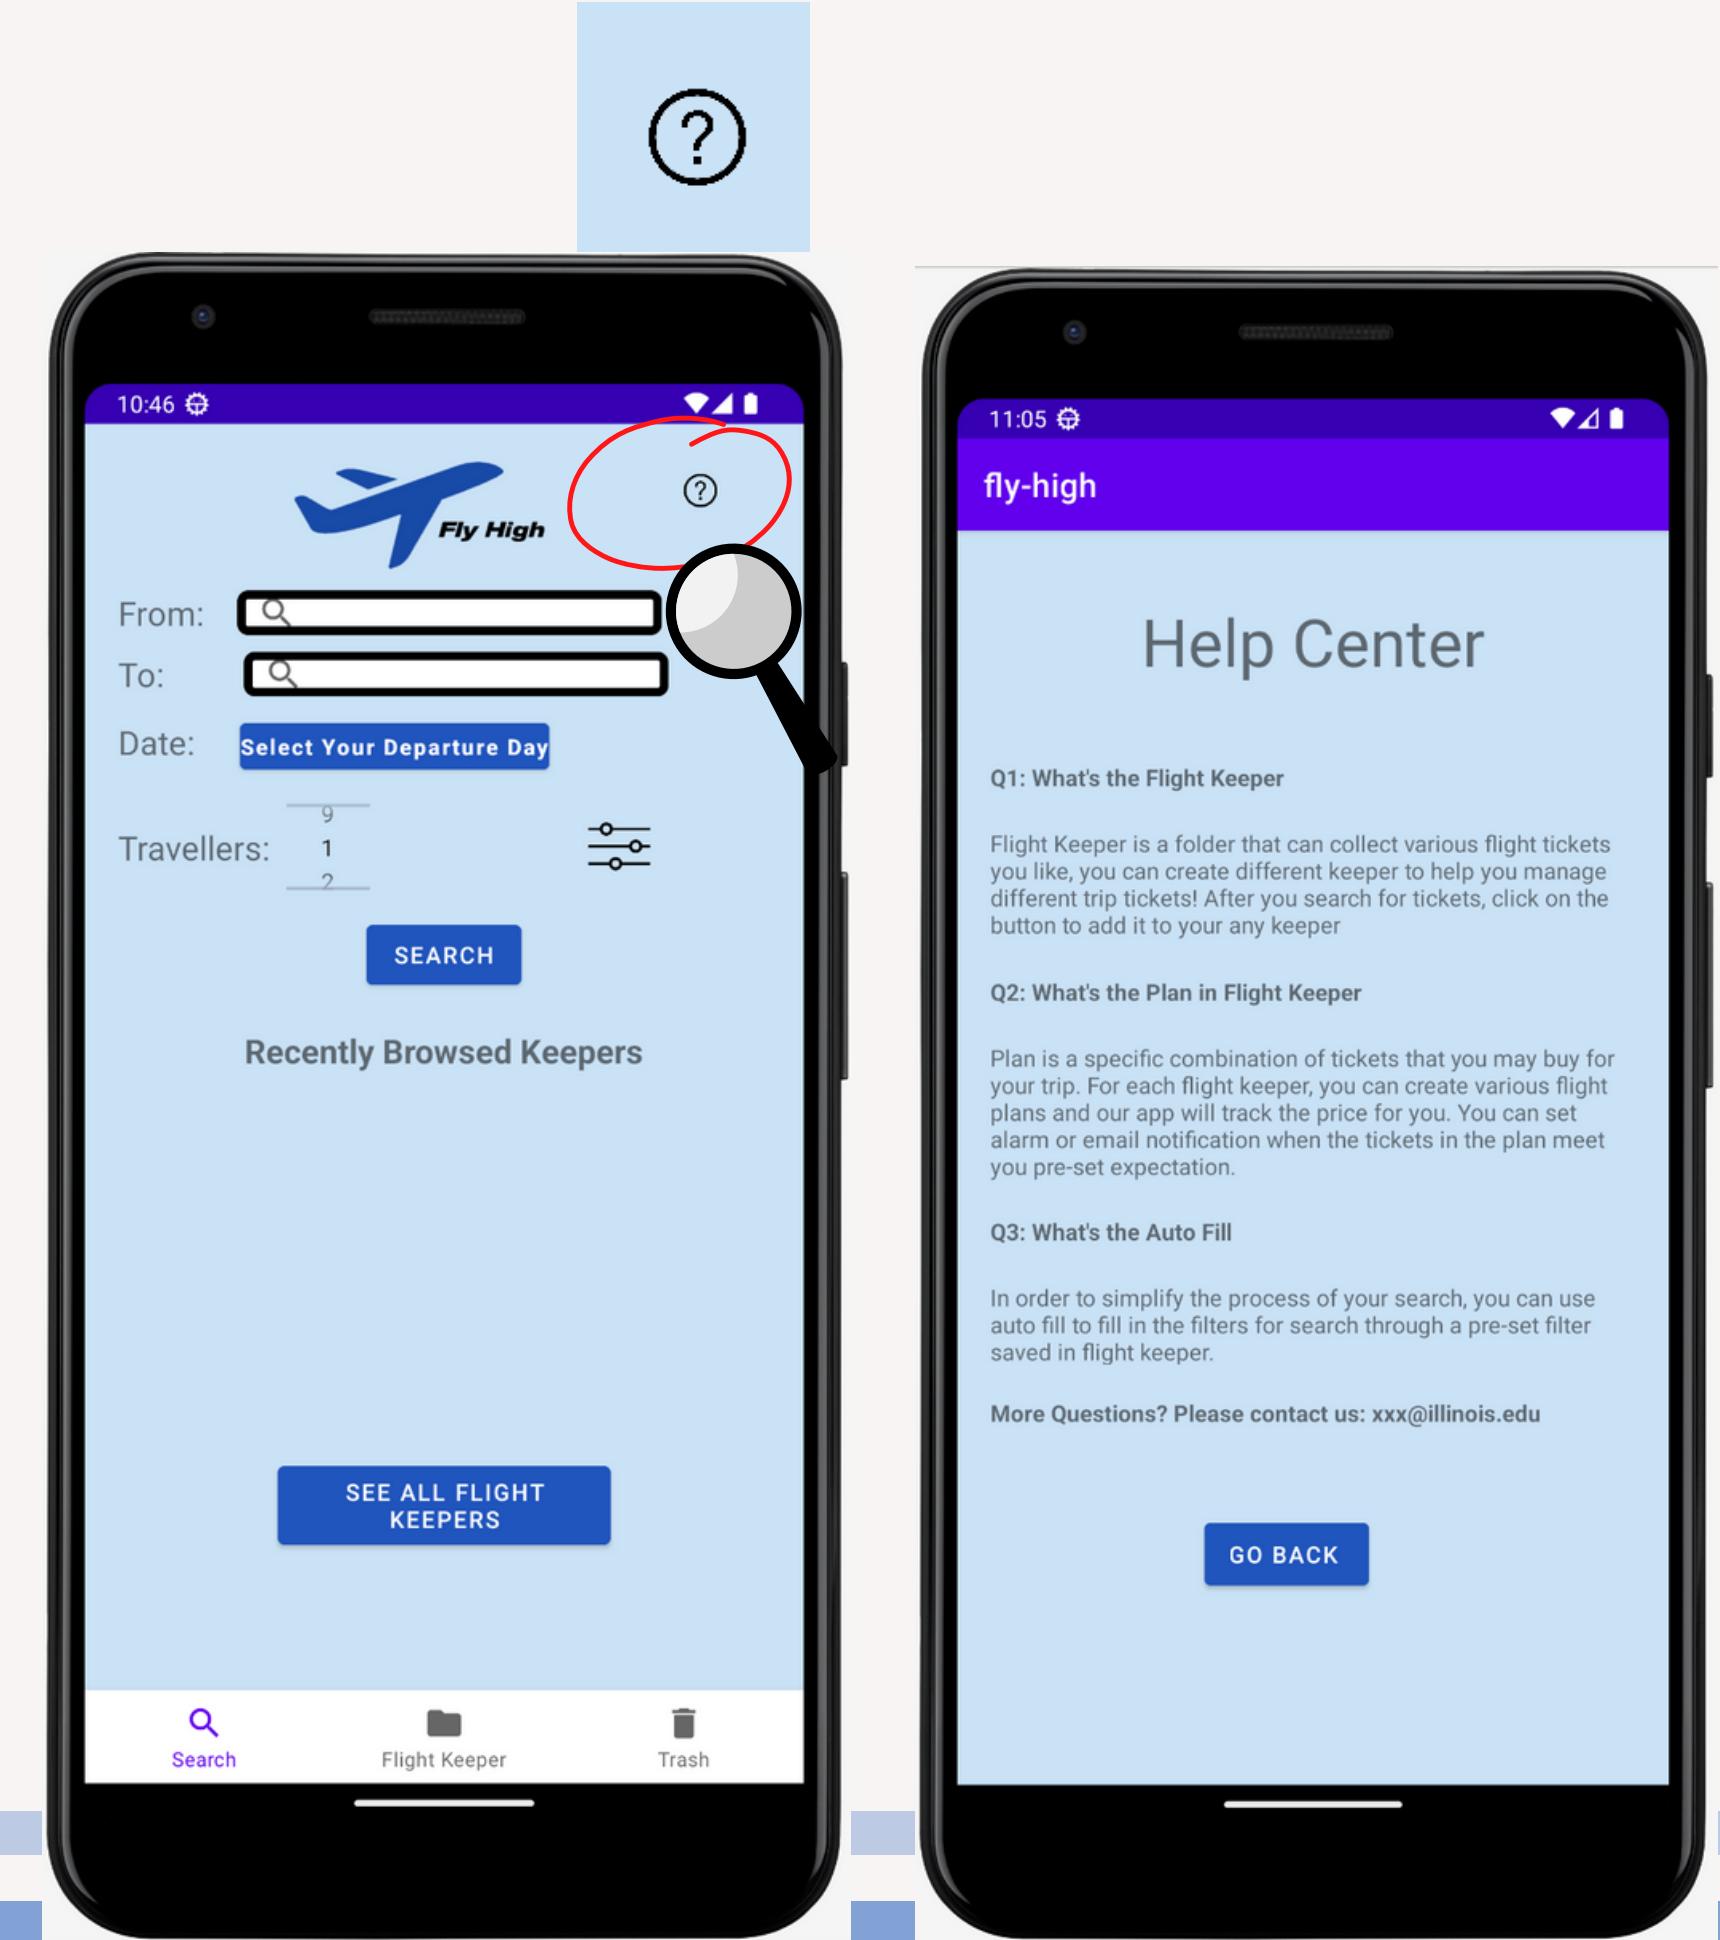

We've added some responsive messages to tell users the status of the application.

REVISED BASED ON THE FEEDBACK - 5

- Added the help center

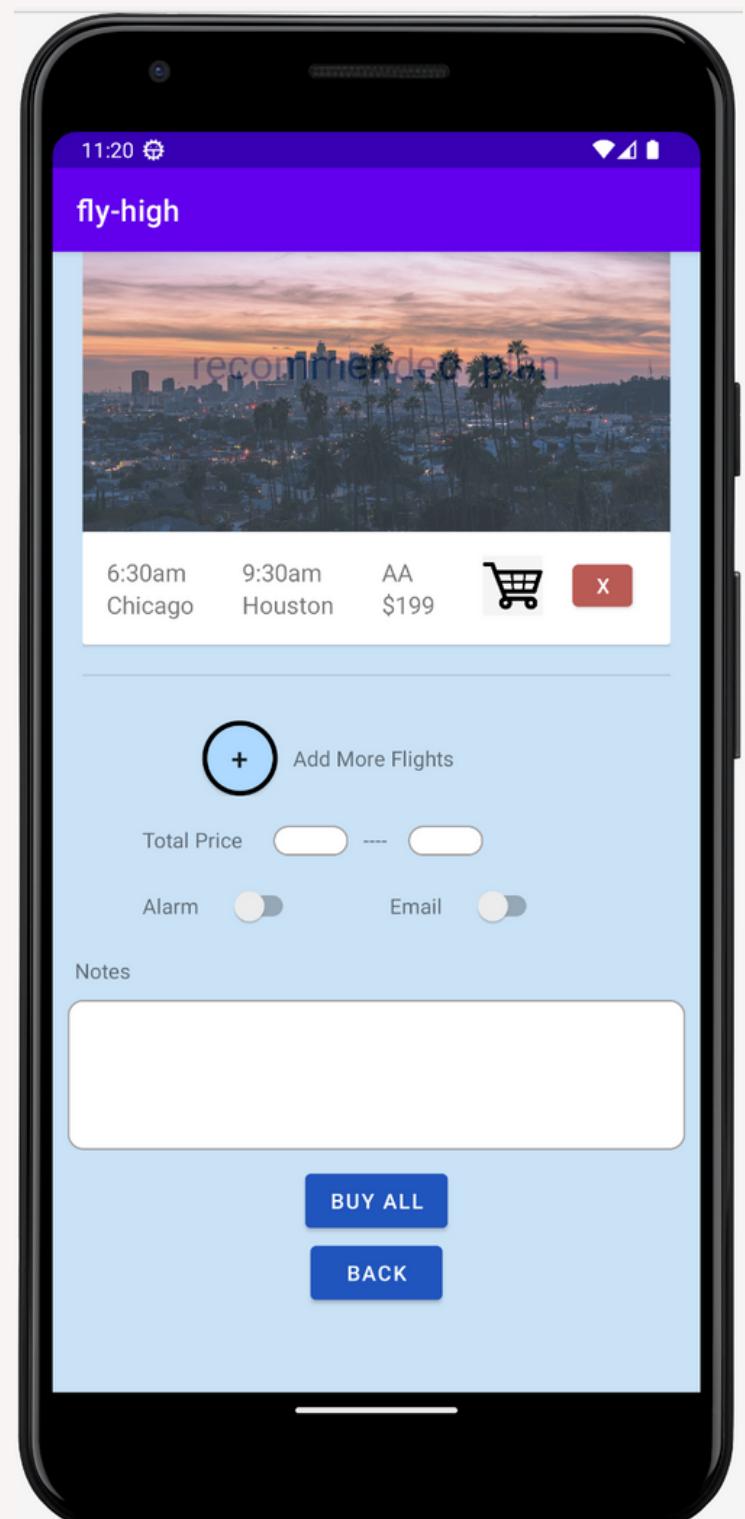

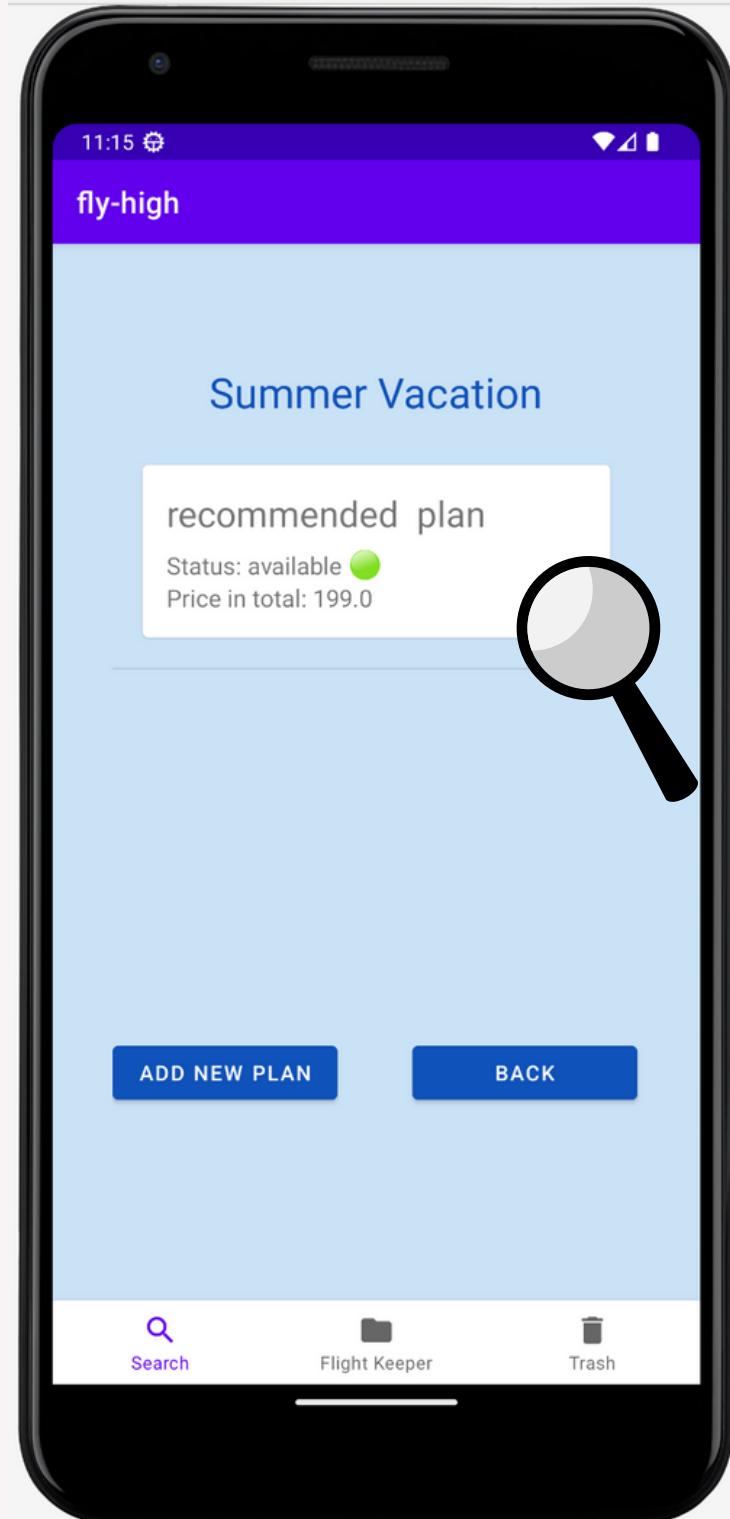

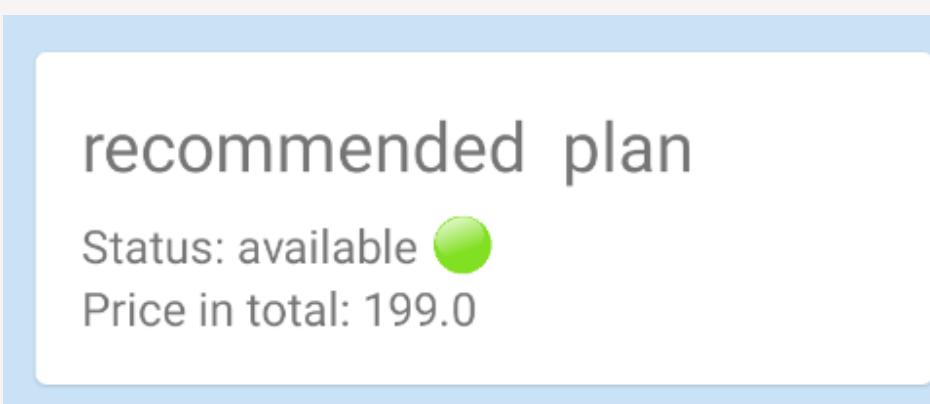

Many people indicated that they often forget the definition and purpose of flight keeper/multi-trip planner, and some terms are confusing when they first-time use the app, so we added a help button. Users can click this button to enter the help center, and browse the FAQ.

REVISED BASED ON THE FEEDBACK - 6

- Added the recommended plan

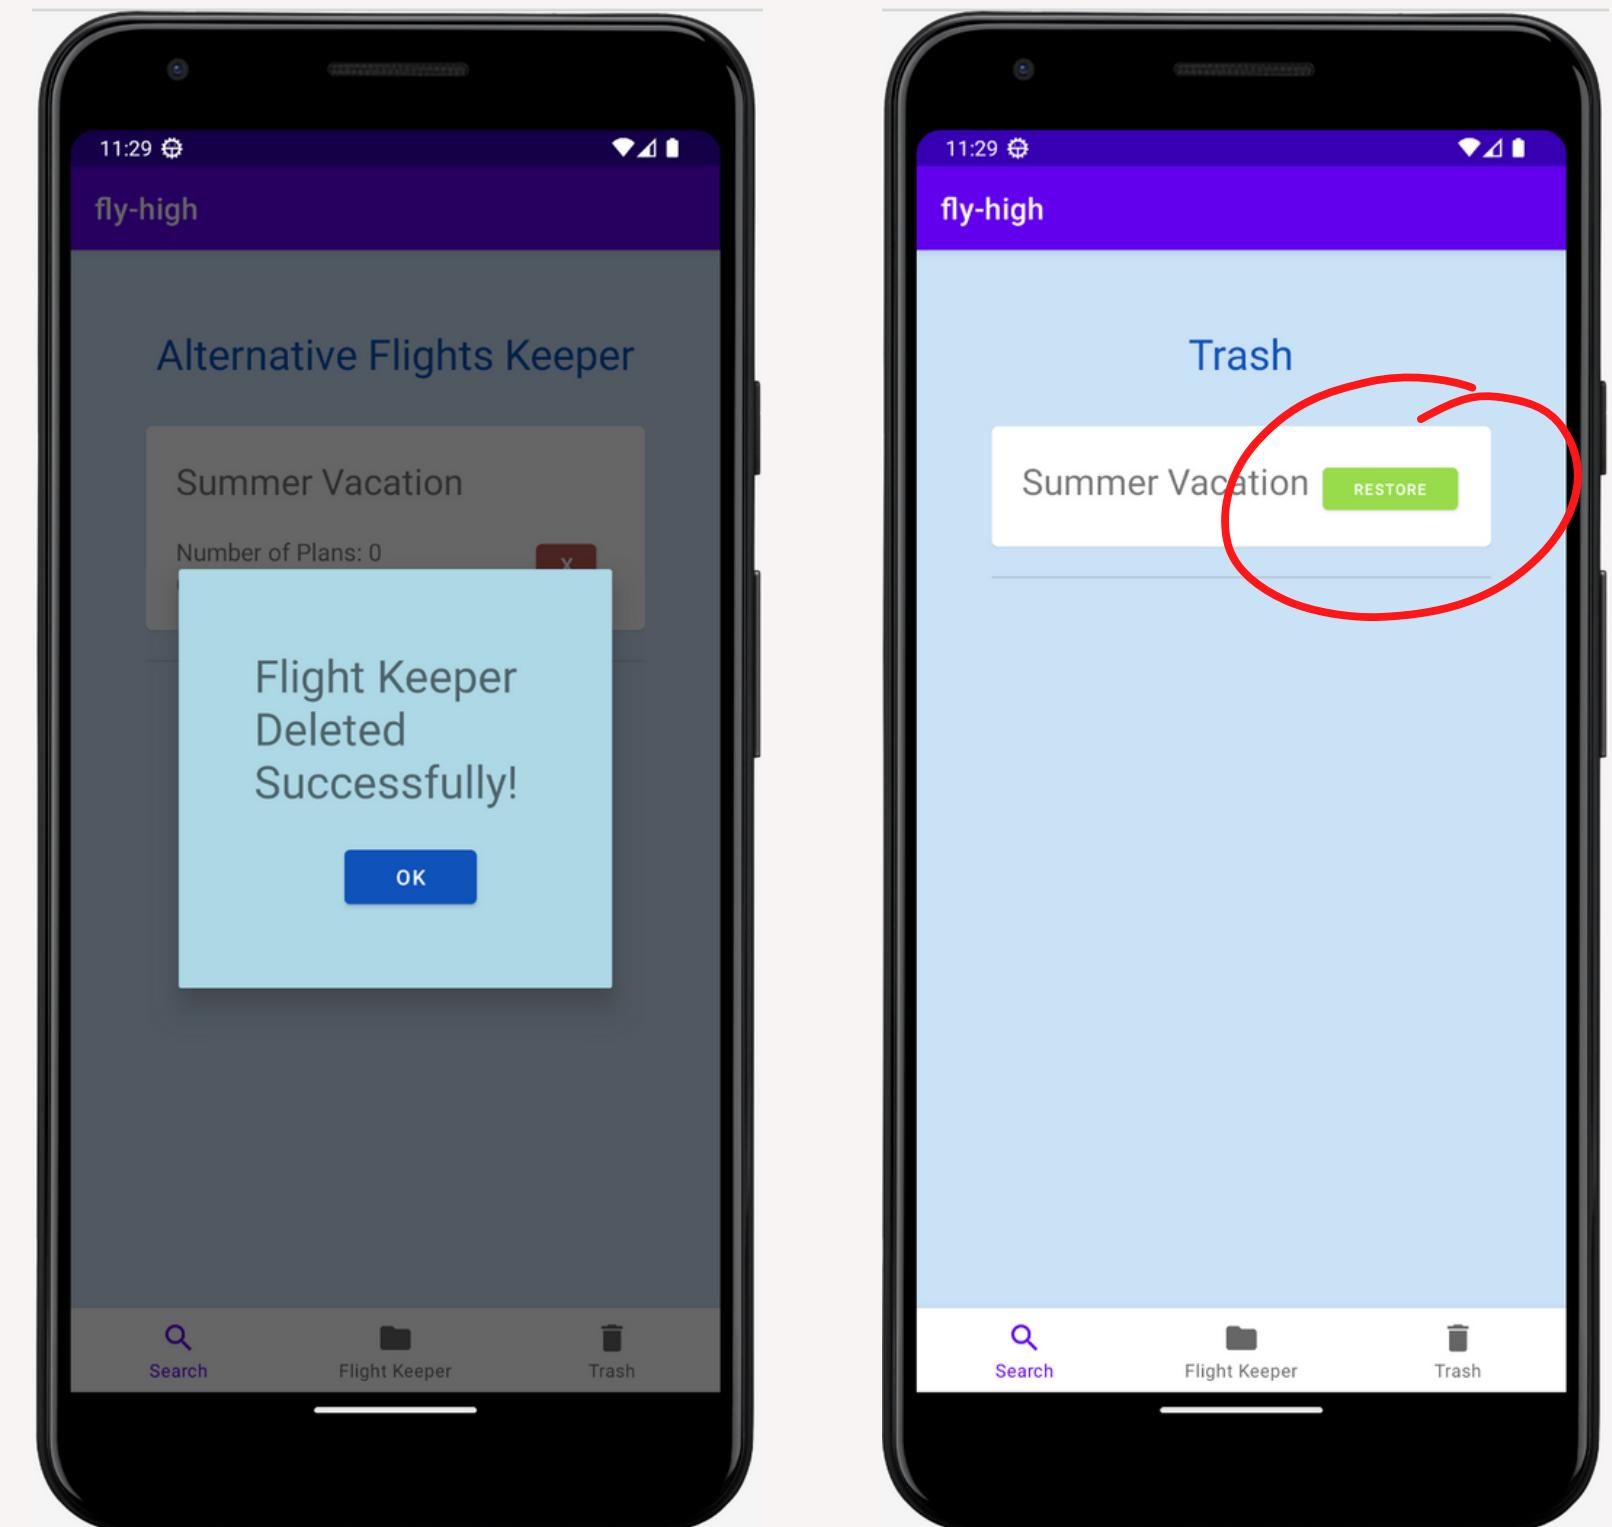

Some users have specific preferences for flight time or flight price, they can add multi-city plan by themselves. However, when users have no particular preference for tickets, we think that recommending a lowest price plan to users would be a good way help them avoid decidophobia.

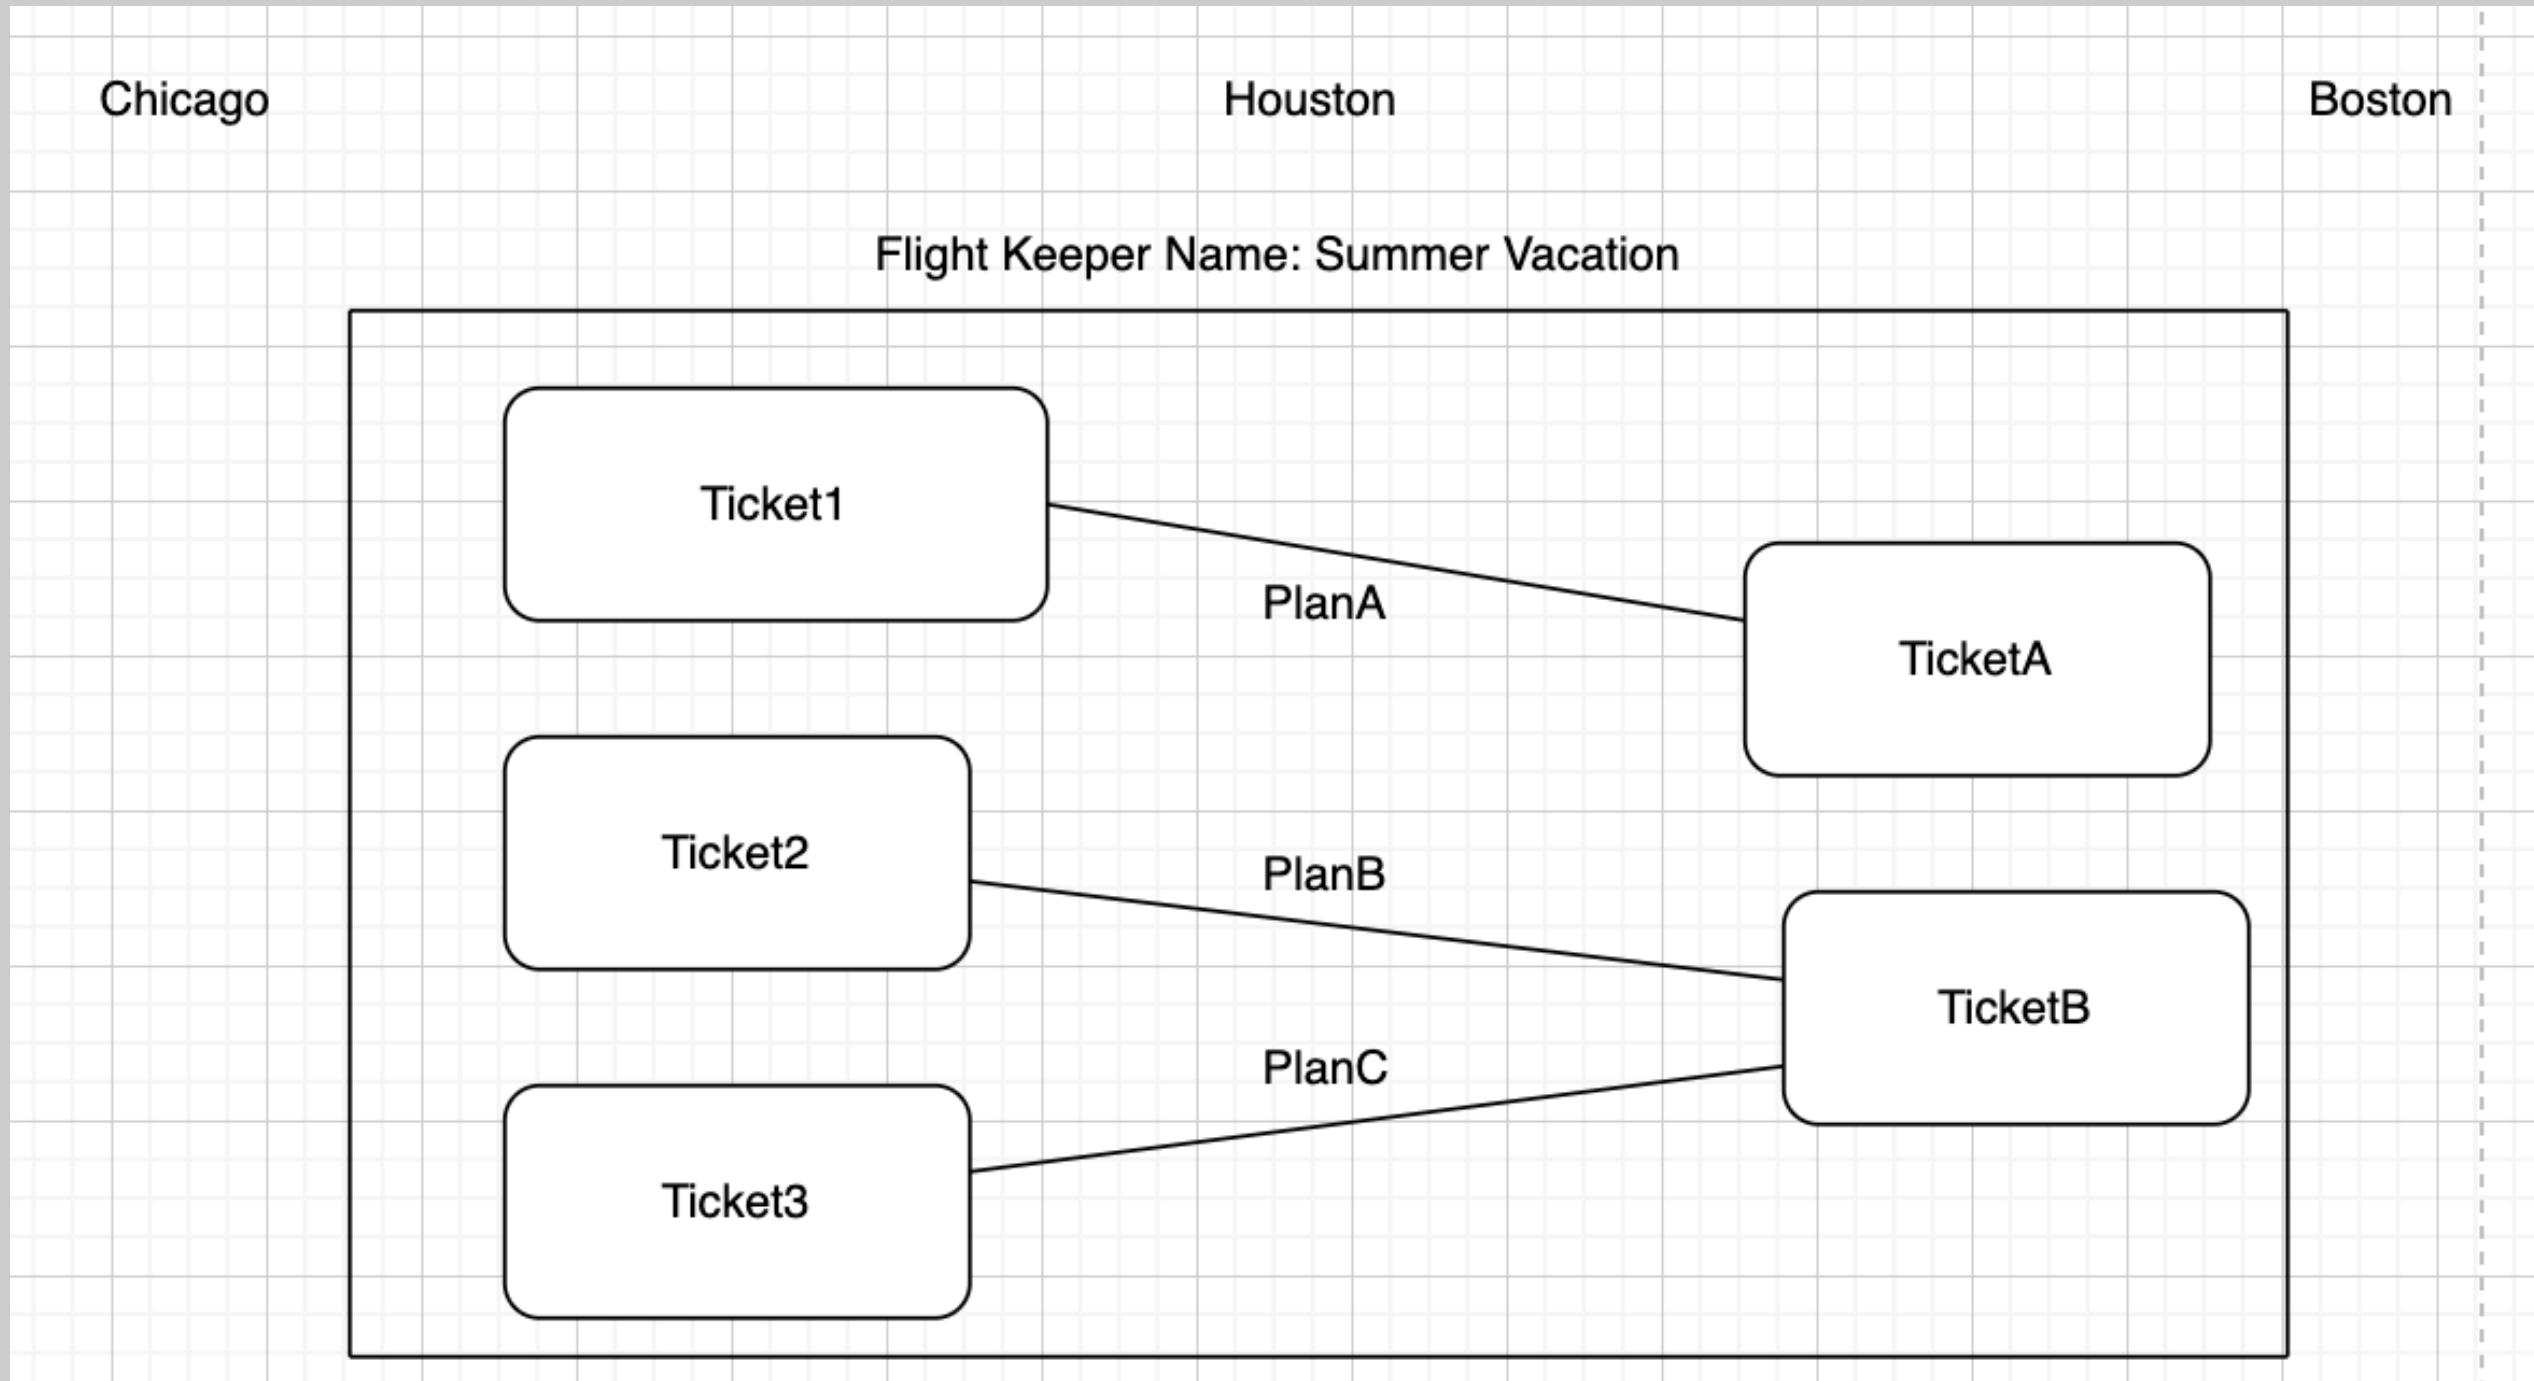

REVISED BASED ON THE FEEDBACK - 7

- Added deletion functionalities and the trash tab (error handling for users)

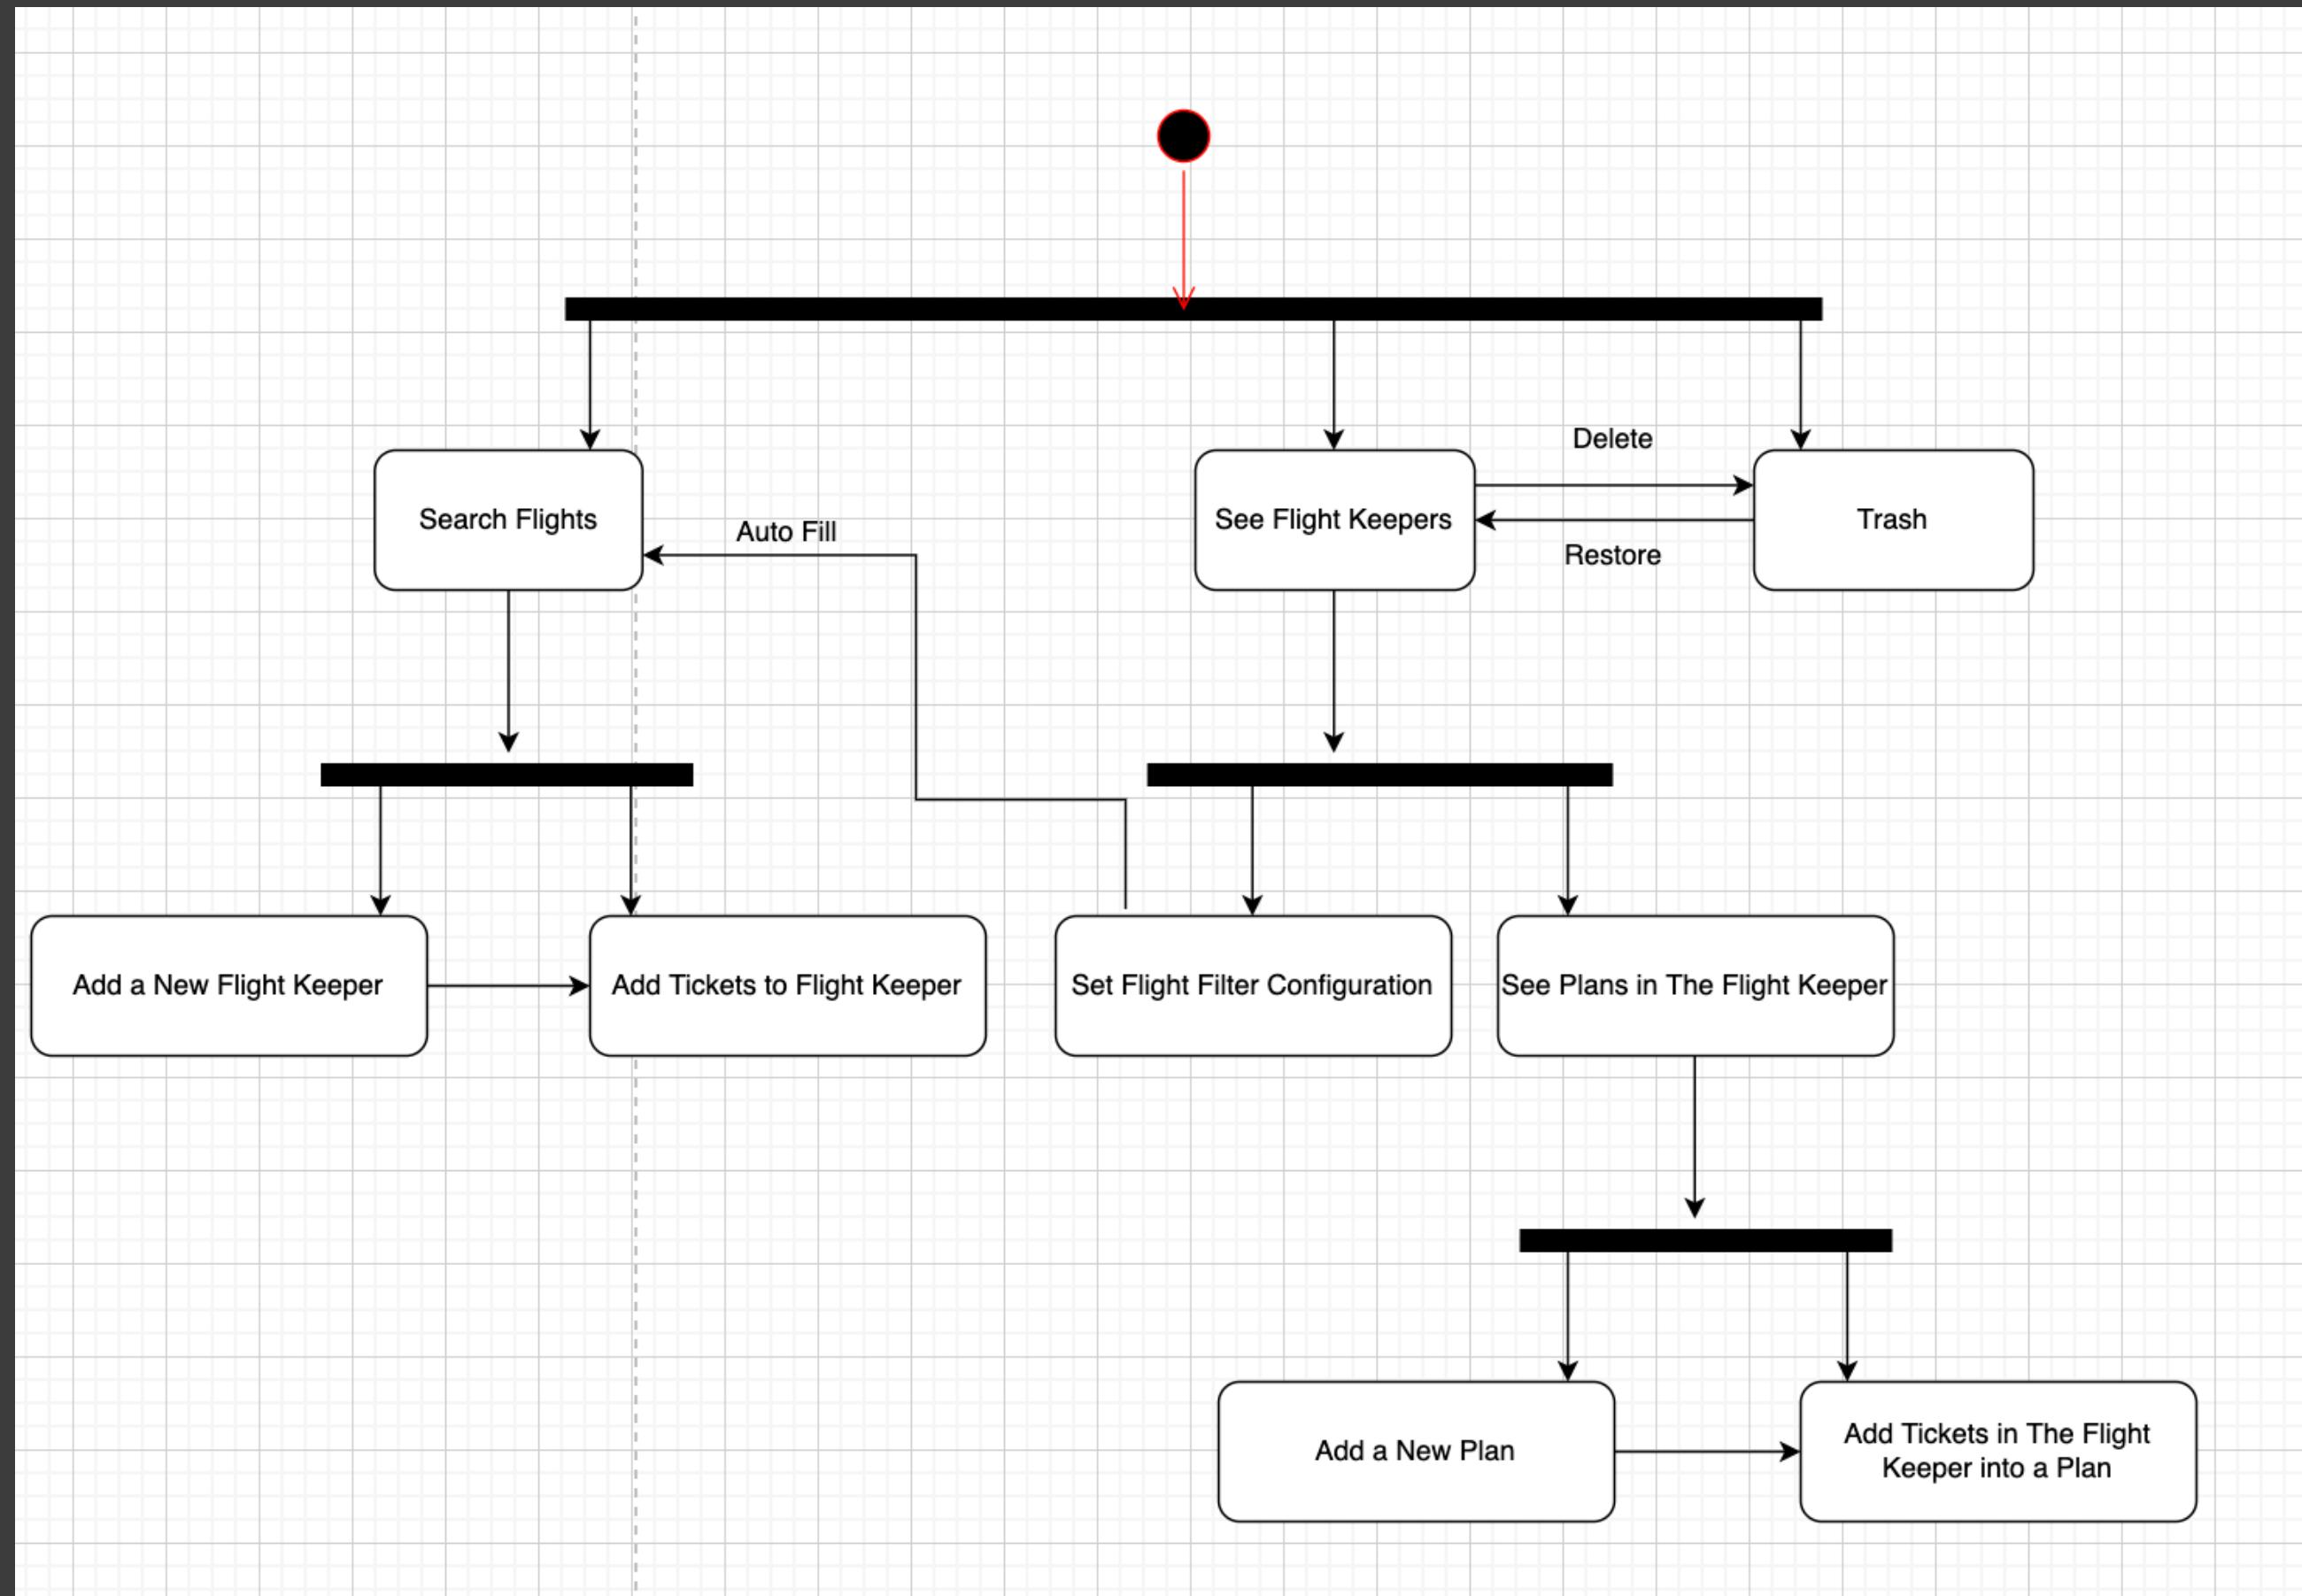

Unexpected deletion is a common operation that users will perform. Therefore, we added a trash tab that allows users to restore the recently deleted flight keeper.
